Clever toys make confident kids

quadro

When children can play actively, they are given a healthy and confident start into life.

A child's best start in life is through active play: experimenting with new ideas, discovering how things work, developing their personality and using their energy. For over 40 years, Quadro has been promoting the development of confident and healthy children by supporting all kinds of play. However, with rapid advances in technology, this crucial aspect of childhood is at risk.

Children come into contact with "smart" and "mobile" devices at a very early age. It can be a challenge for parents to keep their children active, both physically and mentally, while surrounded by so many motionless play opportunities that often leave little to the imagination. And the chance of their being exposed to inappropriate content and ideas is frighteningly high. Since 1979, Quadro's patented plug-in system has offered a smart, active and safe way to play for children of all ages.

Quadro is smart! As soon as the box opens the fun starts. Construction is a core element of the Quadro experience. What other toy brings parents and children together to build something real? It promotes creativity, problem solving and teamwork — skills that are crucial to becoming successful later in life.

Quadro is active! Parents get access to a multitude of possibilities* to help their children grow up with an appreciation for physical activity. Climbing, driving, sliding and splashing — it's more than just fun. Learning the importance of a healthy lifestyle can benefit children for the rest of their lives.

Quadro is safe! We enjoy a reputation that is trusted worldwide. Made in Germany from high-quality materials, our product is sustainable, lasting for generations — and we back that up with a 6-year guarantee. It is also environmentally friendly, free of plasticizers and PAHs as well as being fully recyclable.

The simplest things are often the most valuable. In this catalogue you will find out more about Quadro products, their features and the possibilities they offer. Immerse yourself in the world of Quadro to understand what makes this toy so unique!

With the QUADRO climbing pyramid, the motor skills of children are ideally promoted by a particularly movement-intensive environment.

The climbing pyramid uses no slabs and relies exclusively on a grid of 35 x 35 cm, which is perfectly suited for climbing. Children can concentrate fully on their movement sequences, such as balancing and climbing. At the same time, however, endurance, mobility, strength dosage and body control are also promoted.

The joint construction and development of own models guarantees fun for the whole family, indoors and outdoors, in summer and winter. Just the way your children want it.

Thanks to the highly compressed individual parts you can also use the climbing pyramid indoors again after it has been used outdoors and cleaned with water and a little washing-up liquid, as no unpleasant environmental rumours are absorbed.

Moreover, with the QUADRO climbing pyramid you don't have to worry about the individual parts, like the usual wooden alternatives, staining and leaving unsightly stains on the floor.

All individual parts of the QUADRO climbing pyramid are UV stabilised and of course the climbing pyramid also has the QUADRO 6-year guarantee!
